(b) If so, whether any measures have been taken to evolve international consensus against this danger to peace, stability and democracy; and

(c) if so, the details thereof ?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS (SHRI AJIT KUMAR PANJA): (a) Yes Sir. Government is fully aware of the urgent need to evolve an international consensus against the menace of terrorism. India has been playing a leading role in this respect and it is because of India's initiative, with support from other like-minded countries who are also concerned about the menace of terrorism, that the 54th UN General Assembly had adopted a resolution strongly condemnatory of international terrorism.

(b) and (c) India has also tabled a proposal for adoption of a Comprehensive Convention on International Terrorism and, during the 54th UN General Assembly, it was decided that discussions on India's draft would commence from September 2000 onwards. The draft Convention proposed by India is an important legislative instrument which seeks to overcome shortcoming in existing international Conventions against terrorism which only address specific categories of terrorist acts or terrorist acts committed with specific weapons.
